

Happy 90th Anniversary to Frederick Douglass Memorial Park (FDMP), a historic cemetery in Staten Island, established in 1935! Join the celebration and make history as a 'Partner Preservationist', brick by 'commemorative brick'!

An 8ft tall statue of Frederick Douglass, commissioned in 1961, and the first statue of the famed Abolitionist in all of New York City, stands prominently on the hallowed grounds of FDMP. Encircling the statue are paving stones, all well-worn after 24 years.

In June 2024, FDMP received official designation as a New York City Landmark. Hence, the journey to national landmark recognition, step by step, and brick by brick. Each commemorative brick you purchase not only demonstrates your support of this national treasure, but also displays an inscribed personal message from you.

We are committed to preserve the legacy and cultural significance of New York's only cemetery created by African Americans FOR African Americans to rest in peace, away from the plague of segregation in and from US cemeteries.
